Design as translation - between people, processes and systems

👤 Design as translation — Between people, systems, and emotions

Sayali Deshpande
Service & UX Designer

I'm a Service and UX Designer with roots in product design and front-end development. My journey has taken me from ISDI Parsons (India) to the Royal College of Art, London, collaborating with organizations like the NHS and Local-to-Local (Amsterdam).

I believe design is not decoration — it's dialogue. It listens before it acts. My practice focuses on clarity, empathy, and translating insights into usable, thoughtful systems.

I'm a UX Designer and Business Analyst with roots… …like the NHS and UK Ministry of Justice.

I believe design is the language of empathy. My practice focuses on translating human behavior into smarter processes, simpler systems and meaningful business outcomes.
